

Cohesion by Jupiter Hollow Lyrics:

I wish I could focus on my body of work, there's just too much pressure to be what it's worth.

I know we can consent to my body at work and make it all cohesive.

I'm not just here for the sex, I'm addicted to it all. I'll still feel alive transiting the stars if my eyes close before yours...

Paying for progress with insatiable debt and left with no time. Place my horrors in your crucible and burn them all tonight. All of you watching from your windows; what I'm becoming. I'm afraid I can't stop it 'cause I'm left with no time.

Every day I start with malice in my heart. Take me away, halt my decay.

Every day I start with malice in my heart.

Take it away.

Each and every day I just want to focus on my body of work.

There's just too much pressure to be what it's worth. I just want to focus on this body at work and make a life worth living today.
